

Hi, Parents! My name is Nancy Dailey, and I have taught in the Little Rock School District for thirty years. I graduated with a BSE in education from UALR. I love teaching and seeing my students grow and improve in their learning. I continue to learn and grow in gaining an understanding of how to teach and reach children by continuing to take professional development classes offered by the district. My goal is to help each child reach their potential and to even exceed his/her potential. I want to see them spread their wings and become those independent learners who love learning.

I am married to John and have a son who graduated from UALR and teaches art classes, including private and small group lessons. He also is an illustrator for book publishers and works on private commissions. His art has been bought by collectors in our country and throughout the world. My daughter-in-law, Sarah, completed her doctorate from Indiana University in musical performance and opera. She teaches voice and has special training in how to keep vocalists from damaging their singing voices. She is an adjunct professor at HSU and Hendrix.

My little, furry four-legged foundlings are near and dear to my heart. Many were CARE rescues. In my spare time, I sew dresses for African girls, knit and crochet winter scarves for the homeless, knit and crochet hats for children at Children's Hospital, and sew blankets for the homeless dogs at Pulaski County Humane Society. I am also helping an organization sew quilt tops for children in the hospitals. I love to bake, garden, knit, crochet, read, and sew. I have also completed clothing design classes.

I love teaching at Forest Park. My kids are a delight to teach, and the parents are super supportive. Thanks, my parents, for all of your positive attitudes and support. I couldn't do it without you. 😊
