

Jason Finney currently serves as the Gifted and Talented Specialist for Forest Park Elementary in Little Rock, Arkansas. Mr. Finney has been serving in this capacity for the past eight years, and has been in the field of education for 18 years, starting as a Teach For America corps member in Newark, New Jersey. He was also the executive director of Teach for America-New Orleans for several years before returning to the classroom. For the past four years Jason has served as principal for University of Arkansas at Little Rock's gifted summer program (SLUFY). Mr. Finney has been a National Board Certified Educator since 2005. Jason regularly provides professional development on topics such as early childhood enrichment and observation, STEM education, teacher motivation and beliefs, the inductive model of teaching, and increasing diversity in gifted education.